Harrington and Chatham, after winning eighteen hundred dollars from a countryman at poker, started home late at night. Next morning hatham's lifeless body was found, and Dr. Harrington had fled the country. About ten days ago, two police officers of Atlanta, with a requisition for Har-rington's arrest, came to Memphis, but the fugitive, having been notified of their movements by a telegram, immefiately left for Arkansas. Captain Walsh and McCune, however, worked up the case, and by persistent energy ascer-tained all about the movements of Harrington. They laid a good scheme, and tolled the object of their arrest into a net from which it was impossible for him to scape. man named Billy Edwards heard a man hall him, on Exchange street, corner of Main, and discovered that he was badly wounded. He placed the unfortunate man in his back, and conveyed him to Dr. Hogan's office, opposite the Overton hotel, where Mr. Isaiah Hamilton and the backman carried him in the building. The wounded man was then conducted to the Adams street stationnouse, where his name was ascertained to be Mike Kelley, and an examination of his person showed that he had been wounded by pistol-shots, one having crushed the joint-bone of the middle finger of the left hand. The other ball struck in the right groin, and, ranging downward, lodged probably in the top of the hip-bone. This wound, though dangerous, may not result fatally, unless the ball penetrated the bowels.
At a late hour this morning Kelly was suffering very much, and had the kindest attention shown him by Dr. Hewett and the police officers. He knows nothing of the affair, nor is he certain as to the locality. He is scarcely able to talk, the foot of Commerce street, and then on Exchange street. He says he is an employe at the Charleston depot. Detective McCone arrested two men named Thomas Harrison, alias Mike Sheean, and William Gary, on suspicion of having attempted murder. They told four or five inconsistent stories respecting the shooting, and said they were with the man when he was shot, which, it was subsequently ascertained from parties who heard the report of the pis-, had been done on Front street, beween Poplar and Exchange. > SPRING AND CUMM The Statute of Limitation No Bar to the Collection of Past-Due Taxes-Demurrer Overruled, Etc.

An appeal has been taken to the supreme court, which meets at Jackson next month, and as the principle in-volved in all the cases is the same, the decision in any one will settle the questiens involved. The city attorney, Mr. Hanson, is determined to prosecute all cases to as early a trial as possible.

The following opinion rendered yesterday by Judge Walker, of the second chancery court of Shelby county, will be read with interest, as it embraces and at different times stated that the shooting was done in Happy Hollow, at the public generally. The decision is

These bills are filed to collect certain taxes alleged to be owing by the defendants to the city.

The defendants have demurred upon various grounds; but, with two exceptions, the points relied upon for the defendants here are the same as those raised in the case of B. P. Anderson, commissioner, etc., es. various parties— bills filed by Anderson, commissioner of public revenue, to collect past-due taxes Jpon Gary reaching the cell a prisoner for the State and county. It seems to be well settled, as a general principle, that if a right exists at common law, and a statutory remedy be provided, the remedy so proedy be provided, the remedy so provided by statute is to be regarded as cumulative; the citizen may still, if he chooses, resort to his common-law novel, "Far from the Madding Crowd," remedy. For any effort by the city to resell these lands for the same tax for which it had already been once sold, it would be met on the been once sold, it would be met on the as usual, are profuse. Among the nota-threshold by the embarrassing fact that ble features of the number are the beitself had satisfied and extinguished the tax for which it was again attempting to sell. That that circumstance, even if the city could proceed in the manner indicated, would operate to the certain exclusion of all bidding by third persons, forcing the city to again become the purchaser, is demonstrated by the fact that able counsel in these very cases insist that not even in this court can the satisfaction be set aside. It would be idle to hope for a purchaser, until it is set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, and so as to be conclusive, both on the city and owner. The ordinary remedy being so embarrassing by the former sale as to render it inadequate—virtually no remedy at all. These cases come within the principle announced by Judge Dillon in 23 Iowa, 410. He says: "The tax is declared to be a lien, and liens may be enforced in be a lien, and liens may be enforced in the case of the equity, and the power to collect given by the charter may be exercised by commencing an action in court to have the question is manifest. The Hurgarian Balsam of Life.

The novelty and difficulty of this

This valuable expectorant and lung tonic has been prepared in accordance with the formula now used for over twenty years. It is eminently adapted for the south and west. It restores the lungs to health, relieves coughs and colds, asthmas and all distressing tortures that accompany consumptive tendencies. After any exposure to cold or wet, the Hungarian Balsam should be aken before retiring, as a preventive. Life or years of health may depend upon this act of precaution.

THE KILLING OF JUDGE FOX.

Letter Relative to the Enfortunate Affair, from Judge Aldridge.

EDITORS APPEAL-Judge Aldridge has this morning sent me the accom panying letter relative to the difficulty between himself and the late Judg Fox, in Forest City, with the request that I hand it to you for publication. I have looked over it, and herewith send it to you, as it seems dispassionate and in no wise offensive. Respectfully, CHARLES W. ADAMS. March 24, 1874.
